

MOVIES

Collecting MadVideos -- Making plans for Chad Vader Episode 6

Kristian Knutsen on Monday 01/15/2007 07:01:44,

Writing is underway and production is tentatively scheduled to being in early February for the sixth episode of Chad Vader, the online T.V. series that is Madison's most robust export in the world of internet superstardom. Created by Matt Sloan and Aaron Yonda of Blame Society Productions, the series is currently slated to continue at least three more episodes.

The video update follows below.

In addition to previewing the next chapter of their subordinate Sith saga, the creators also read 'fan mail' -- the hostile, the misspelled, and the inexplicable -- in this latest update, now a regular intra-episode feature of the series.

What about the these next few episodes? " I will say that we've plotted out the next three episodes and we pretty much know what's going to happen," says Yonda, but we can't tell!" He does say, though, that episodes 7 and 8 will probably be shot together, and that they are hoping Mayor Dave Cieslewicz will make a cameo at some point.

Sloan and Yonda also encourage fans to vote for Chad Vader in the VH1 Greatest Internet Superstars countdown that will debut on Feb. 16. They were interviewed for the program on Jan. 6, and will be featured in the commentary accompanying the entire countdown.

If you wish to let us know about more videos by, of, and about Madison and Madisonians, please consider adding them to the Isthmus YouTube group or send a message.

